JFK Economy Bills Marked For Approval

Kennedy To Send Farm Program to Congress Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's legislative program sails into the shoals of congressional controversy this week with every indication that the vanguard of his priority proposals will win approval.

The Senate will take up by midweek a bill to provide $394 million in loans and grants for areas of chronic unemployment.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he hopes the measure will be passed substantially in its present form before the week is out.

The Senate Finance Committee will hold a hearing Wednesday on a House-passed bill to extend unemployment compensation payments to jobless persons who have exhausted their benefits. Mansfield has scheduled action in the Senate on it next week. It is expected to sail through with minimum opposition.

Kennedy plans to send a farm message to Congress Tuesday. He has scheduled a housing message for Thursday.

The kind of reception these and other controversial programs receive may be tested to an extent by the Senate's action on the depressed areas legislation.

As Democratic strategists view it, there is likely to be only one close battle in the Senate over the bill that involves what is largely a Democratic family argument — whether the program shall be administered by a separate agency or the Commerce Department.

Democratic leaders think they can dispose of Republican substitutes without much trouble.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has on tap a substitute calling for an $80-million program similar to that proposed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. All but $5 million of government funds would be for plant loans in depressed industrial areas.

Dirksen's bill is given almost no chance of passage. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., has an intermediate proposal for a $214-million program.

300 Reservations Made For C.C. Dinner

A capacity crowd of 300 has been assured for the Salem Area Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Chamber Secretary Victor Ballenger reported today.

Philip Geary of Los Angeles, Calif., a world traveler, will be the principal speaker.

Co-chairmen for the 6:30 dinner are Robert Oswald and Richard Wilson.

The E. W. Bliss Co. and Farmers National Bank will sponsor a pre-dinner reception at the Golf Club.

Weekend Rains Cause Ohio Streams To Flood

CINCINNATI (AP)—Hard weekend rains were to help push the Ohio River out of its banks today at Cincinnati and later downstream.

A spokesman said Sunday night that the Ohio would probably squeeze over the 52-foot flood stage at Cincinnati by dawn and rise at least another foot by sundown.

He said the river would probably go no higher than 53 feet if there was no more rainfall in tributaries upriver—but more rain was expected today.

The bureau said main tributaries of the Ohio were near or already at flood stage Sunday night.

The American Red Cross at Cincinnati said it was making preparation for emergency duty in

VFW Post Honors Salem Physician

The VFW Ladies Auxiliary presented its annual Community Service award to Miss Rachel Graff, (second from right), an employee in the traffic department of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Miss Jane Royle (right), president of the Auxiliary, made the presentation.

Mr. Brink said Dr. McConor was chosen for the 'Man of the Year' award because of 'the many things he has done in the community for which he received no monetary gain.'

He singled out Dr. McConor's work with the youth of the city, including free physical examinations for students participating in sports and for children attending the Salvation Army camps.

Dr. McConor, a past president of the Salem Kiwanis Club, served in the Army during World War II.

John Herman Jr., was the recipient of the outstanding citizen award last year.

The selection committee consists of VFW members.

Miss Graff won the Community Service award for the 'numerous hours she has voluntarily spent helping fellow workers, elderly people and needy families in the community.'

Air Force Plane Crash Kills 9

Explodes Near Base Runway In Texas

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—An Air Force KB50 refueling airplane crashed just short of a Biggs Air Force Base runway Sunday night killing all nine men aboard.

The six-engine craft crashed with a tremendous explosion in an unpopulated area two to three miles northeast of a runway at the base.

The plane was one of six returning from a routine refueling mission in the Pacific.

The wreckage was scattered over a half mile area.

An official Air Force inquiry was started to determine why the airplane crashed.

Base officials said the pilot had asked the Biggs tower for landing instructions just prior to the crash. The pilot reported no trouble.

A red flash was seen by one witness 30 miles away from the crash site, eight miles northeast of El Paso and near the New Mexico-Texas line.

The plane was assigned to the 431st Air Refueling Squadron at Biggs and was based there as a tenant craft attached to the Tactical Air Command. The KB50 is a modification of the B29 of World War II fame. It is used for refueling of jet fighters attached to the TAC.

Adlai Sets Busy Round Of Confabs on Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson planned a busy round of private talks on the Congo crisis today as diplomats gathered for resumption of the U. N. General Assembly Tuesday.

Stevenson arranged a breakfast meeting with President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, who will address the 99-nation assembly when it resumes its 15th session after an 11-week recess.

Nkrumah is expected to press his demand that Africans only be allowed to try to solve the situation in the Congo.

The chief U. S. delegate also planned to confer with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko who arrived Friday night to head the Soviet delegation in what is certain to be a bitter fight over the Congo.

British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore also was on hand for the assembly reopening. The session is expected to last six to eight weeks.

Diplomats hoped to avoid long debate on such cold war issues as Tibet, Hungary and the Soviet complaint against U. S. reconnaissance flights, but there was no sign of agreement that the discussion could be deferred.

The main issues before the assembly will be the Congo problem, disarmament and Soviet demands that the U. N. structure be altered to replace the secretary-general with a three-man executive.

Nkrumah already has transmitted to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold his proposal for a new all-African U. N. command in the Congo which would disarm all Congolese troops, free political prisoners and reconvene Parliament. He has also proposed

Ohio Woman With 'Lots of Hidden Money' Detained

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A 70-year-old Ohio woman, who told police to keep the $22,000 found in her purse because she had lots more hidden away, was detained here today while a judge in her home town made arrangements to bring her home.

Mrs. Edith Falor of Ravenna, Ohio, was placed under a technical charge of being a disorderly person when police found her wandering around the bus terminal Saturday while other patrons peeked in the purse containing the cash and several diamond rings.

She told officers she was going to California to marry her boyfriend. After a moment's reflection, she added: "I don't think I will because he's a little too young for me. He's only 50."

Later she told officers at the General Hospital detention ward, "I keep my money hidden. Why don't you people just keep the money and let me go? I've got lot more left, but I've got it hidden."

Garrison Quits After Day Of Bitter Fighting

Nation's Political Leaders Gather To Work Out Truce

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Weary U. N. soldiers laid down their arms and withdrew from the key Congo port of Matadi after 24 hours of bitter street fighting with Congolese soldiers, a U. N. spokesman reported today.

Negotiations are going on with the Congolese government to get a U. N. garrison back into the town. If these break down, the United Nations is empowered to use force as a last resort, the spokesman said.

Two Sudanese U. N. soldiers—of the 130-man garrison—are known to have been killed in the battle, which raged throughout Saturday and until noon Sunday. Thirteen other Sudanese were wounded. Twelve are missing.

Canadian Officer Missing
A Canadian signal captain also is missing and the U. N. spokesman said there are grave fears for his safety.

Matadi is the Congo's principal supply port and without control there, the U. N. supply operation would be gravely endangered.

Trouble blew up in the hillside town 60 miles up the Congo River when Congolese units erected road blocks to impede the movement of U. N. personnel. Two helicopters also were seized as they touched down at nearby Boma. That was on Friday.

Saturday the Congolese tried to dislodge an 11-man guard of U. N. Sudanese which had been thrown around a hillside villa used as a communications center by a Canadian signal unit.

The Congolese killed a Sudanese and wrecked the post.

A Canadian captain who went out to talk with the attacking Congolese was not seen again.

Vastly outnumbered and with their ammunition running low, the Canadian signal post and its

2 Hurt When Auto Strikes Parked Cars

Two men were injured and six cars badly damaged in a single traffic mishap investigated by highway patrolmen over the weekend.

Patrolmen said the accident, occurring on Rt. 164, two and one-half miles north of the Columbiana County line, at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, was caused when Norman Esterly Jr., 30, of Columbiana, drove his southbound car at an excessive speed and attempted to avoid an unknown car pulling out of the Sheely Electric Co. driveway.

The Patrol said Esterly, in attempting to avoid hitting the car, drove his auto off the left side of the highway, causing it to break off a utility pole and bounce off into five cars parked in front of the Sheely store.

Treated at Salem City Hospital following the mishap were Esterly, with contusions of the chest, and Luther Mackey Jr., of Columbiana, a passenger in the Esterly car, contusions of the left side of the neck and left leg.

The five parked cars were owned by James Yost and Robert Sheely of New Springfield, Paul Smith and Donald Munholland of North Lima, and John Kellner of Columbiana.

Esterly was cited by patrolmen for unsafe operation.

Miss Taylor Is Improved

Actress Still In Danger, However

LONDON (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor had a restless night but she showed slight improvement this morning in her desperate fight against pneumonia, her doctors reported.

"There is a slight improvement in Miss Taylor's condition, but she is not out of danger yet," said a bulletin from the team of six doctors attending the Hollywood star.

Dr. Carl Heinz Goldman, Miss Taylor's personal physician, said she would be in the London Clinic for at least another 10 days and she will need a long time to recuperate, perhaps a year.

The prospect of such a long period away from the cameras raised another big question mark over the future of the multimillion dollar epic "Cleopatra," in which Miss Taylor was to play the title role.

"Cleopatra" was scheduled to start rolling again next month after long delays due to earlier illness.

Chicago Mops Up In Wake Of Tornado

CHICAGO (AP)—Utility and city crews labored along barricaded streets today to clear debris from a tornado that cut a twisting 5½-mile swath through Chicago's South Side at dusk Saturday.

The twister struck without warning, leaving one dead and 93 injured. Property damage was estimated at $5 million.

Three elementary schools were closed for repairs. At least 25 buildings have been labeled unsafe for electrical service by George Ramsey, city building commissioner. He said nine would be demolished.

Ramsey said at least 3,000 structures were damaged, about 75 so severely they could not be occupied.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the tornado touched down initially near 91st Street and Western Avenue, then took an erratic course northeast across a residential and shopping area then into Lake Michigan.

It collapsed store fronts, tossed autos about, uprooted trees, shook houses from their foundations, sent rooftops spinning, and spread glass and masonry in the streets. Wires were felled, plunging the area into darkness.

The twister's path, about 300 yards wide, was traced by a tornado expert at the University of Chicago, in an aerial survey.

The injured were taken to 10 hospitals. At least 75 were treated in emergency rooms and released.

Tornadoes, Snow Batter Midwest

By The Associated Press

Rain, sleet, fog, snow and tornado winds battered sections of the Midwest today.

A tornado swept through five blocks of a residential area in Kokomo, Ind., today, killing an 80-year-old woman. The storm damaged the Miller Steel Co. plant in the north-central Indiana city.

Heavy snow continued falling in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

In the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, hundreds of cars were stalled on highways and side roads piled high with snow that drifted under 20 m.p.h. winds.

Six inches of snow fell in five hours up to midnight, atop four inches that fell Saturday over the area. The Weather Bureau saw no letup in the snowfall.

In Iowa, the state patrol warned motorists that snow, rain and sleet had left "a sheet of ice across the state." In northwest Iowa numerous communities reported six inches of snow.

A tornado struck Jerseyville, Ill., early today. There were reports of excessive wind damage to property and utility lines.

Damage was small except where one twister caused heavy damage to storage buildings and boats on the Gravois arm of the Lake of the Ozarks.

In the Pacific northwest Sunday, a rain storm powered by winds of up to 83 m.p.h. raced through the state, then changed to a blinding snowstorm in the Cascade Mountains. Property was damaged and utility lines downed.

The snow continued today, with 18 inches reported at Mt. Hood.

The same storm blew into Washington State and into British Columbia, with largely the same effect on property and utility lines.

In the East Sunday, temperatures were generally moderate, though high in some areas. Washington, D. C., had an 80-degree reading, setting a record for the date.

Heavy weekend rains in Ohio sent rivers and tributaries over flood stage in many communities.

The threat of rising floodwaters along the Mobile River in Alabama forced suspension of railroad passenger service on the main lines of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

James P. Hayden, 64, of 703 N. Union Ave., a former grocer and for the last 12 years vice president of the Arbaugh Furniture store, died of cancer at 1:25 p.m. Sunday in Salem City Hospital.

Born in Salem, Jan. 20, 1897, he was the son of Roland and Dorothy Cook Hayden.

A World War I veteran, he was a member of the First Baptist Church. His only survivor is his wife, Emmalyn, whom he married July 19, 1924.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Stark Memorial. Rev. R. J. Hunter of the Baptist Church will officiate, with interment in Grandview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Memorial Tuesday evening.

May Serve In Slum Areas

U.S. Role for Kennedy Peace Corps Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says the Peace Corps he has proposed may serve on the home front as well as abroad.

"One of the matters which we are now studying," Kennedy said, "is how we could use Americans who desire to serve in our own country—slum areas, in education retaining and all the rest."

"We are now attempting to see how we can use this reservoir of talent and desire here in our own country as well as abroad." The President's comments were recorded at the White House during a television discussion with Eleanor Roosevelt. The program was televised Sunday.

R. Sargent Shriver, the President's brother-in-law who was appointed director of the Peace Corps Saturday, also appeared on the TV program. He said proposals to have Peace Corps members work in settlement houses as part of their training for overseas service was being discussed. Other corps officials said no decision had been made on the suggestion, one of many being considered.

Shriver said he wanted every American who desires to serve in the corps to have a chance to volunteer. Kennedy has said he hopes to have 500 to 1,000 young men and women in service around the world by the end of the year.

Volunteers will serve two or three years without pay, except for living allowances and perhaps a severance allotment. They will go to countries where they are needed and wanted and work particularly on teaching, health and agriculture.

Overseas reaction included this comment from an educator in Nigeria—where only 15 per cent of the population is literate:

"Teachers, and more teachers is what we need most urgently. If America can supply some through its Peace Corps scheme we are wide open to consider any plan which has no strings attached."

Hong Kong's Communist T. Kung Pao said the United States conceived the corps as "an aggressive weapon, to infiltrate and win control over underdeveloped countries."

There was almost complete approval in Pakistan. In India, a spokesman said the idea was "revolutionary and idealistic."

In Britain, Lord Hinchinbrooke a right-wing Tory, thought the plan naive. Jo Grimond, Liberal party leader, thought the scheme splendid.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If your symptoms indicate that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. This is all the more remarkable in light of the fact that the great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are 18 scalp disorders that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is the cause, Texas, of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. If you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair, now is the time to act.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them information to help them analyze your problem. This information should include how long your hair has been thinning, and whether or not you now have or ever have had any of the following conditions: Do you have dandruff? Is it dry or oily? whether your scalp erupts in pimples or other irritations, does your forehead become oily or greasy? does your scalp itch and how often? and any other information you feel might be helpful. All letters will be answered promptly. Send the above information, and your name and address to Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Box 66001, Houston 6, Texas.

way of housing are nothing new. But an on-the-spot survey, made in a house built for that very purpose, is a bit different.

The study was conducted only a few blocks from the White House in Washington. There, on a downtown lot, a two-bedroom house was built especially for evaluation by the White House Conference on Aging. Designed by architect Robert B. Waring to include many special features considered desirable for families of any age and essential to those past 60, the house was completely furnished, decorated and landscaped. The entire project was under the direction of the American Association of Retired Persons, with half-a-million membership, and the Douglas Fir Plywood Association.

Three thousand delegates from every state and United States possessions carefully looked over the house and then answered a lengthy questionnaire designed to determine the likes and dislikes of the elder citizens. There were some interesting results.

Told that this special house would cost between $10,000 and $12,000, including land, only 10 per cent of the delegates said their down payment would have to be less than $1,000. Thirty six per cent said they could make a down payment of up to $3,000. And 46 per cent said they could pay more than $3,000.

The design of the house, contemporary with a heavy influence from Japanese architecture, features an interior courtyard that helps to avoid the boxy appearance of many small houses. A high, beamed ceiling gives an airy feeling to the otherwise small rooms in the living area. While the house leans more heavily toward modern design than traditional, an effort was made to avoid clashing with what is considered the conservative taste of most senior citizens. Eighty one per cent of the delegates called the design very good and 19 per cent thought it fair.

A bath tub was considered essential by 81 per cent of the delegates, with 59 per cent in favor of a shower as well as a tub. Only 19 per cent thought a shower alone was adequate.

Forty per cent said they would be willing to spend about $500 extra for a fireplace. Seventy eight per cent thought the size of the rooms about right. Twenty two per cent thought them too small.

Most of the senior delegates want more than a house. They are interested in available facilities in the area. For instance, 66 per cent considered it essential that there be nearby medical clinics or offices. 31 per cent considered them desirable and one per cent thought this was not important.

And, in case you are wondering, only 5 per cent considered nearby shuffleboard courts important, although 43 per cent wouldn't mind having them. The rest weren't interested.

RETIREMENT HOME — Here is an artist's conception and a basic floor plan of the model home for the aged designed by architect Robert B. Waring, under the sponsorship of the American Association of Retired Persons and the Douglas Fir Plywood Association. It was displayed at the recent White House Conference on Aging.

Home Builders Old-Fashioned Lot, Construction Head Says

By GABE KAIMOWITZ
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
HAWTHORNE, N.Y. — (NEA)

—There's nothing wrong with the chronically ill home building industry—that a little progress, automation, invention, imagination, education and research couldn't cure.

That's the opinion of Joshua Benanav, a youthful Czechoslovakian refugee who went into the field here as a home "manufacturer" rather than as a home builder.

Many builders may take sharp exception to Benanav's views.

The few "little things" that Benanav believes need correcting before home building is put on solid ground include:

1. Building methods. "A Revolutionary War farmer would see modern advances everywhere today until he would observe a man on top of a hill building a home because the builder would generally be using the same techniques and materials employed in the farmer's day."

1. Employment. "Automation has come to every field—except the home building industry. I had to invent my own machinery to cut wood on an automated basis. Of course, I now cut it better, cheaper and faster."

"With much of the manufacturing done away from the land site construction can go on all year instead of shutting down for the winter."

3. Style. "The trouble with well-styled homes built out of the usual materials is that they cost too much. The trouble with some prefabricated homes is that style is forgotten about entirely; any box is called a home."

"Combine the best techniques of both, manufacturing the wood sections to save money, handworking in stone and brick, if necessary, to maintain quality."

Fortunately, many pre-fabricators already have adapted this policy and turn out attractive homes.

As Benanav sees it, home builders grudgingly give in to style changes "unlike the auto industry where the manufacturers set the styles."

4. The builders themselves. "You know what it takes to be a builder? No schooling, of course, even though every other field, including barbering, demands it. No, all that is needed is a few dollars (not thousands, or even hundreds) and a lot of guts."

"Then, as long as he is building, he can live from house to house, never knowing how much anything costs, but taking each enough to get by until the next house or development comes along. So he has no time for money and research."

Benanav's Seaboard Homes firm pioneers a research program in which new experiments are tried in individual houses. The houses are sold in the open market to test customer reaction.

5. Slums. "These are more abundant today than ever before here, because the cost squeeze keeps more people in deteriorating neighborhoods or forces them from one to the other. Even though their incomes go up, housing costs stay ahead, because there has been little attempt to save on labor or overhead."

If builders would just keep up with the times by finding methods to cut costs without reducing quality, they could increase by perhaps 50 per cent the million or so new houses they build each year, he says.

"How does Benanav stay ahead of the game? 'I've been in building for only three years, but I have known woodworking for 19 years. What difference if I manufacture furniture or homes?'"

"And I was in a Nazi forced labor camp building pre-fabricated army barracks. There I learned what NOT to do."

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: Some weeks ago I bought an unfinished wooden coffee table and have been debating with myself ever since on what kind of finish to put on it. My wife says she read somewhere a long time ago about a method of giving wood a marble effect with the use of paint. I'd like to try my hand at it. Can you tell me how it is done?

ANSWER: Yes, there is a way to simulate the marble look on wood, some persons do it beautifully and get an almost exact marble appearance. Others just can't seem to get the hang of it. Should it fail to come out the way you expected, it's a simple matter to paint over the whole thing with another color. If you want to try the marble effect, here's how it goes: Apply a white undercoater paint to the top of the table. When it is thoroughly dry, apply a dark high-gloss enamel with a half inches wide. The enamel should be thinned a bit with turpentine. While this dark enamel is still wet, apply a light color enamel with an artist's brush, twisting the wrist and hand to simulate the marble veining. Immediately apply still another enamel, a different light color, also using an artist's brush. Next—and again while the paint is still wet—crumple a piece of newspaper into a ball. Dab the wad of newspaper on the veining. This last procedure softens the lines while at the same time picking up any loose paint. Allow the entire job to dry—and you have your marble effect.

Away From Massive Retaliation

Apparently a news snoop in Washington came up with confidential information when he reported that Secretary of State Rusk was backing away from the late John Foster Dulles principle of "massive retaliation." But as long as the fat's in the fire, the public might as well enjoy the spectacle.

Ever since Secretary Dulles had the diplomatic world choking down a lump of fear with tough talk about "massive retaliation" if the Soviet Union started anything in Europe military realists have been pointing to the probability that future wars would be fought below the atomic threshold.

They would be like the Chinese wars of the past, in which the main object was to minimize risk. There would be no nuclear bombing. Intercontinental missiles with the atomic warheads wouldn't be fired. The Strategic Air Command never would be dispatched. These ultimate weapons would be held in reserve, as poison gas was held in reserve throughout World War II.

ACTUAL FIGHTING would be done by mobile troops. Hit-and-run tactics would be favored. Deadlocks like the trench warfare in World War I and the long sieges of World War II would be avoided. War of attrition would be ruled out.

Yet, the military realists were kept cornered by the "massive retaliation" theorists. The United States continued to gear its military machinery to the supposition that another war would be fought with atomic bombs. Those who argued that it was not this way in Korea, were kept on the defensive.

But they continued to make themselves by not this way in Korea, were kept on the defensive. And it's a good guess they were listened to by President Kennedy and Secretary Rusk, among others in the new administration in Washington. Their idea is that the United States would be courting disaster by preparing to fight only an atomic war, because that would make it helpless to cope with non-atomic war—the kind it fought in Korea and couldn't—or wouldn't win.

IF THIS fat really has fallen into the fire in Washington while a news snoop was watching, the American people may as well watch the scurry and skirmish.

They can be sure the Russian embassy will be sending out for all the papers, to keep track of the evidence, because the Soviet Union always has known something it is hard for "massive retaliators" to admit—that the United States would never use a nuclear bomb in Europe and this would have the effect of putting Europe at the mercy of an old-fashioned "blat"—the kind Germany used in World War II—unless Europeans themselves, were prepared to do what the United States hadn't prepared to do.

Care of the White House

It's a pity President Kennedy's first move to spike the spenders backfired when he blocked a $200,000 improvement on an officers club in Germany. But the principle is still sound. He still wants to hear about extravagance.

He didn't know the $200,000 improvement was being made out of profit, instead of out of the Defense Department's appropriation. But even out of profit it was such a questionable expenditure that the Defense Department stopped it as being out of step with the drive to curtail spending abroad.

If Mr. Kennedy really means it when he asks Americans to tell the White House about waste and proves he means it by stopping waste when it is reported to him, the White House will have to put on an extra correspondence secretary to handle incoming mail, telegrams and telephone tips.

In the Eisenhower budget that has been rejected as too conservative, expenditures amounted to $436.83 for every person in the United States. By the time the Kennedy bud-getters get through totting up the additional spending they have in mind for the United States, the per capita clip will be a great deal larger than $436.83.

So for a start, we'd like to have the White House issue an order to cut off $6.83, so the per capita clip will be a nice round figure—$430. That would be a 1 1/2 per cent saving, which is peanuts compared with what is going on in families, companies and corporations right now.

It would be sacrifice for government spenders, but nothing unreasonable. After all, if taxpayers sacrifice, why shouldn't tax-spenders sacrifice?

Instead, just the opposite is in the works. Taxpayers are going to have to scratch up wherewithal the hard way, but the spenders are going to dish it out faster than before. Maybe a few million taxpayers should tell the White House this nags them more than a few proposed improvements on officers clubs in Germany.

A Notable Lack of Cheering

A one-tenth of 1 per cent drop in the consumer price index in January has caused more cheering than the dismal news from the Congo. Yet, according to the shrieks of some of the Democratic campaigners last year the salvation of the republic depended on a lower price index. It had gone up more than 10 points since 1955.

What then, finally forced it down? The official explanation is that the main factor was the worst winter weather in memory. Severe storms tied up commerce and caused merchants to drop prices on goods that people couldn't buy, in many instances, because they simply couldn't get to the stores.

Low temperatures and icy gales hurt used-car business and string-halted new-car business. In addition to bad weather, the economic climate turned too chilly for the nation's good. The recession which had closed in during the political campaign, began to leave its mark in January.

Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Once a season the Seminole Indians are guests at Hialeah races. They take an annual look at pleasure-bent white man and exclaim: "So this is civilization!"

The Indians are only people at the track who have no trouble behaving normally. "Lo, the poor white man!" seems to be reflected from their bronze faces.

It is rumored the Seminole tribe has a few who play races but the Red Man has not become enslaved by the racing charts or succumbed to the spirit of Chief Pien-Tee-Bunk, which is Indian for "Whispering out of the side of mouth."

It's great stuff to switch back and forth from the Indian, calm, cool, happy and relaxed, to the howling, wild-eyed, hysterical, irrational dippy-doodle tourists as they dash hither and thither in a mad search for a nervous collapse.

These facts stand out from a survey on Seminole day at the races:

1. No Indian feverishly buttonholes other Red Men with "What does Max like?" "Are they trying today?" or "What are you playing?" There are no yells of "I got switched."

2. The Red Man can stand calm and emotionless while race is run and is incapable of looking at a thoroughbred photo-finish and screaming "The bum quit."

3. Seminoles seem to smile on horses as noble animal friends who have had bad luck to get into racing instead of onto a quiet Indian reservation where sanity prevails.

4. All Indians return from races in happy mood and normal mental shape.

"Why White Man so crazy he knock self out on hot day in beautiful park on trip for health?" Seminole asked us. "He is highly civilized and can't help it," we explained.

The question is whether there could have been a reduction in the price index without these blows of adversity. Organized labor especially likes to point to every rise in the price index as proof positive that it is being ground under the heel of the profit system and is entitled to redress. Labor spokesmen pointed to increases during the Eisenhower administration as reason for driving its disciples into outer darkness.

Yet there isn't a cheer to be heard anywhere now that the index has dropped a notch and mar drop a few more notches before it rises again.

The great illusion of the Era of Doctor Statistics dies hard—that prices should remain stationary while wages move ever upward. The fact is that when the price index falls, the country has no more reason to be happy than when it rises too rapidly. But it always moves up or down. Not even a statistician can make it remain stationary.

LABOR HIGH COMMAND has been meeting in plushy Florida playground and from the white beaches and rafts comes a steady emphasis that unemployment is getting worse and worse. They say that from choicest cabanas you can hear the loudest cries of "The situation is awful. Why doesn't Kennedy act?"

Britain is stirred by use of diplomatic pouches to hold laundry. "Her Majesty's diplomatic pouches are for deep secrets, not dirty shirts," says British Foreign Office. Well, less harm might be done if diplomatic pouches carried more laundry and fewer papers. It should be a relief to any foreign office to open a diplomatic pouch and find nothing more disturbing than a few socks and some pajamas. In these days of crisis what a relief to know there was no occasion for a swift top level conference, analysis and diplomatic reply. Just get the laundry through, return it and peace will prevail.

Have you noticed what follows bank's commercial for thrift accounts Saturdays on TV? A superdooper telecast of Florida races! And during telecast a closeup of Mt. Rushmore heads of Washington, Lincoln and other great Americans, the announcer ties the sculptural art in with (oh no!) a plug for a beer!

Pay-TV is being tried in Hartford, Conn., because people are more desperate for entertainment. Elimination of commercials on pay-TV will mean escape from (1) those maps showing routes and detours taken by pills through human anatomy; (2) absence of jingles; (3) disappearance of cowboy who steps out of gun duel to endorse a cigarette or hair oil.

In this story, the probe's really not the thing. It's the by-play, and the enormity of this self-assignment.

Actually no one really knows how many billions are involved. After Rep. Powell said he had run into "scandals" in the misuse of some of this money, I asked him for total pension figures for, undoubtedly, this is the largest private pool of cash and securities the world has yet seen.

"We don't quite know," said the Harlequin leader, "but industry's payment into these funds per year now exceed what our federal budget was until 1939."

"This is more than nine billion dollars—more than the combin-

"There is really no law to protect their assets. Or to keep some trustees from blithely handing out a million-dollar interest-free loan. All Art Goldberg can do is file the reports."

"Now we want to give him power to make certain of their accuracy—or send violators to jail. We're getting up a simple form. Remember, soon we'll have 500,000 such funds."

THE LAW the congressman seeks is as overdue as a kept Soviet pledge.

Mr. Powell estimates there are $40 billion in such funds today. Actually, Securities Exchange Commission data reveals that we know of $60 billion. But this figure is as of the end of 1959. Thus, by this time there must be well over $55 billion. Just to make certain, I want to point out I'm writing of billions.

Now we have the word of experts that by 1965 these monies will total $96 billion. And by 1970, they'll hit the $100 billion mark. Rep. Powell estimates that the

I find it helps me to keep my perspective if I make a point of reminding others that calamity howlers have been with us from the beginning of recorded time and are as much a part of the performance as eternal optimists.

Neither group of these extremists ever should be taken seriously. All successful attempts to assassinate politicians who have caused great suffering and inflicted great wrong leave me dry-eyed and cheerful. All unsuccessful attempts leave me uttering the silent wish, "Better luck next time."

When someone tells me after witnessing my misery in the throes of the first cold I've had in years, "Be sure to take care of that cold," I nod easy assent and continue to sputter, wheeze, cough and burble. What else is there to do? If you go to a doctor, chances are he will have a worse cold than you have.

I am high on John F. Kennedy as chief executive because I've always wondered what would happen if we gave intellectualism a chance in the federal government. But I am concerned over what seems to me to be his failure to hold the momentum that carried him into office and seemed powerful enough to put him into orbit during his first few weeks in office.

As soon as I get a few other things invented I expect to turn my talents loose on a better step-ladder and feel that anything I might do would be 100 per cent better than the traditional back-breaker and shin-bruise we're using at our house.

The funniest cartoon I've seen on the subject was a London newspaper's version of Ham the space gorilla lecturing Messrs. Gissom, Shepard and Glenn, the U.S. astronauts, and saying, "First, there's the big whoosh, then you're busy doing a lot of things, then you get the feeling you want a banana."

It's my conviction at the moment that a 6-year-old kid who can't see the futility of U.N. intervention in the Congo mixup shouldn't be allowed to enter the 1st grade. It would be like trying to stop a riot at an Irish picnic.

The auto industry's decision to put fittings for seat belts on its 1962 models will take the pressure off on the score of safety and give dealers a chance to sell a piece of life-saving equipment that can be installed with no trouble. It looks like a good deal all around.

Don't report me to the House Un-American Activities Committee, but the Russian high-jumper, Valery Brumel, who has been beating this country's highest jumper, John Thomas, has been behaving like a gentleman and a sportsman and so has his manager. School Aid Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Constitution Bans Help for Parochial Institutions

President Kennedy has sought to clarify the paradox referred to in these dispatches at the time he submitted to Congress his message on education. He called then for federal aid to college students, irrespective of whether they attended religious institutions but did not favor such aid to children attending parochial schools at the elementary and secondary levels.

David Lawrence

The President, in his latest press conference left the door wide open for Congress—so far as constitutional questions are concerned—to extend federal aid to parent who do not send their children to public elementary schools but who favor their attendance at private or parochial schools.

The President clarified the issues when in answer to a question he said:

"Well, the Constitution clearly prohibits aid to the school, the parochial school. There is no doubt about that. The Everson case, which is probably the most celebrated case, provided only, by a 5-4 decision, was it possible for a local community to provide bus rides to non-public school children but all through the majority and minority statements on that particular question there was a very clear prohibition against aid to the school direct."

"The Supreme Court made its decision in the Everson case by determining that the aid was to the child, not to the school."

"Aid to the school is there isn't any room for debate on that subject. It is prohibited by the Constitution, and the Supreme Court has made that very clear. Therefore, there would be no possibility of our recommending it."

THE PRESIDENT didn't discuss the question of how aid might be given to the parents of the younger students in much the same way as it is given to the students of college age. In fact, in answer to another question, Mr. Kennedy said:

"The aid that we have recommended to colleges is in a different form. We are aiding the student in the same way the GI Bill of Rights aided the student."

"The scholarships are given to the students who have particular talents and they can go to the college they want. In that case it is aid to the student, not to the school or college and, therefore, not to a particular religious group."

"That is the distinction between them, except in the case of aid to medical schools, and that has been done for a number of years because that is a particular kind of technical assistance. The constitutional question has not arisen on that matter."

What the President is really pointing out could be called a distinction without a difference. Opponents of federal aid to any students who would use the money for tuition in church schools are logically calling, in effect, for a repeal of the GI Bill of Rights and all forms of scholarships that pay for education in any non-public institutions.

Defenders of the existing policies of aid at the college level are logical in insisting that, if it is constitutional to extend such aid with federal funds—even if the money goes to religious colleges or private institutions—then it is also lawful to extend such aid to the parents of those children of elementary and high school age who are enrolled in parochial schools.

THE SUPREME COURT of the United States in the Everson case in February, 1947, referring to fire and police protection, bus transportation and similar services to a school, said:

"Of course, cutting off church schools from these services so separate and so indisputably marked off from the religious function, would make it far more difficult for the schools to operate but such is obviously not the purpose of the First Amendment."

"That amendment requires the state to be a neutral in its relations with groups of religious believers and non-believers; it does not require the state to be their adversary. State power is no more to be used so as to handicap regions, than it is to favor them."

By the same token, if the federal government extends aid to public school children, as is being suggested, and denies such aid to children who go to parochial or other private schools, then it can be accused of handicapping the religious education which is voluntarily sought by parents for their children in order to supplement the regular course of studies.

To understand the problem, it can well be imagined what a financial burden in higher taxes for the community would be imposed if parents of children now attending private and parochial schools were suddenly to decide to send them all to public schools.

The states would have to pay heavily every year to take care of the nearly seven million children now attending private and parochial schools. Many extra teachers would have to be hired and new buildings erected.

CERTAINLY the extent to which the taxpayers today are being relieved of this extra burden in the community involves sums many times larger than the federal assistance that might be granted to those parents of children of elementary and secondary school age who desire to send them to religious schools but at the same time cannot afford the double burden they are carrying today.

Perhaps the way out is to refund to such parents certain amounts out of their tax payments, which could then be used for education in private schools. This would not be direct aid to the schools or educational institution but to the students themselves.

Matter of Fact

Why do cocker spaniels tend to crouch when threatened? This meek-looking gesture isn't a sign of cowardice. It is a habit bred into cockers by hunters during the Middle Ages. After a cocker spotted birds, hunters would come up behind with a net which they threw over the dog and birds.

In the "good old days," about the most frightful weapon was a fierce animal. The Spanish conquistadors defeated the Indians with large dogs trained for fighting. According to the Roman poet Lucretius, the ancients used wild animals—lions, bears, and bulls as weapons.

Medical Study

The Baltimore Health Department reports that a 2 1/2-year study of 2,736 pregnant women showed more premature births among those who smoked cigarettes than among those who did not.

"However," Todd M. Frazier of the department told the Johns Hopkins Medical and Surgical Association "there is no evidence that a reduction in pre-maturity rate could be achieved in a randomly selected group by their curtailing or stopping cigarette smoking during pregnancy."

Among the women surveyed, Frazier said, 11.1 per cent of those who did not smoke had pre-mature births. The percentage rose to 22.9 per cent for women smoking more than one pack of cigarettes a day.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I was shocked to read the letter from the wife who wanted her husband to sleep with a bicycle horn strapped around his head, so that when he lay on his back and snored the horn would blow and wake him up.

Maybe I'm crazy but the sound of my husband snoring is the sweetest music in all the world. When I hear that familiar snore I know he's at home where he belongs—and all is well.

Not only do I love to hear him snore but I love to look at his face when he's asleep. You know, Ann, men are a lot like little boys, and when they sleep their hair is all tousled, and their faces are angelic and innocent.

When my husband is asleep he looks so much like our 3-year-old son that it tickles me. Of course I'd never let him know, so please don't give me away by printing my initials or the name of my city. Just call me — HUSBAND WATCHER.

Dear Watcher: Only a lady in love could write such a warm and sweet letter. How lucky — for both of you!

There's a lot of "little boy" in every man and the woman smart enough to understand this usually has a solid marriage. You've got it taped, Honey.

Grandmother's Place

Dear Ann: What is a grandmother supposed to do when she sees her son's children neglected? Time and time again my daughter-in-law has brought the three children to my home with dirty, straggly hair, long, filthy fingernails and unwashed necks and ears.

I give them clothing for birthdays, Christmas, every possible opportunity but they always seem to be wearing shirts that are too small and blue jeans with the knees out. One Sunday their Dad brought them over just before Sunday School and the oldest boy asked me to sew a big hole in his sock.

I've seen my daughter-in-law give the children raw wieners and gill pickles for lunch. When they come to my house they can't seem to get enough to eat.

My son is a good provider, there's a maid in the house and my daughter-in-law looks like a fashion model when she goes out. She's intelligent, a college graduate and comes from a lovely family.

I once made a few suggestions to my son about this. He told her and she let me have it with both barrels. What shall I do now, if anything? — STUMPED.

Dear Stumped: Continue to wash 'em, clip their nails, sew their socks and feed them nourishing food when they come to your home. Beyond that — nothing. And above all, keep your views to yourself.

Thwarted Teen-Ager

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 14 years of age. The hair on my legs is very dark and my mother won't let me shave them. She says I am too young for such things.

I am beginning to develop a complex over this. I imagine that everyone is laughing at me — especially boys. I would have gone out for cheerleader but the hair on my legs stopped me from even trying. Please tell me your views on this and advise me.—MISERABLE.

Dear Miserable: In some cultures hairy female legs are not considered unbecoming. In America, however, part of good grooming is smooth legs. If your mother doesn't want you to use a razor, buy hair-removing cream in the drug store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. H. T. HYMAN

Know the ABC's of Polio

Infantile paralysis is a much misunderstood infectious disease.

Its infectivity is NOT limited to infants who enjoy, as a matter of fact, an almost complete natural immunity for about the first year of life.

It rarely causes paralysis. At least 95 per cent of infections consist entirely of what is called "inapparent infections."

That is to say, pass as summer colds, "summer diarrheas," ptomaine poisonings or mild gripe attacks.

The infection is NOT airborne, hence it cannot be prevented by shutting schools, playgrounds, theaters and public meeting places in times of epidemic.

IT IS STOOL-BORNE, excreted with bowel movements of those suffering inapparent infections as well as paralyzed patients and convalescents.

Since suffers from inapparent infection outnumber the paralyzed by perhaps 20 to 1, they constitute the principal reservoir of infection. And the menace, created by them, can best be eliminated by the simple device of scrubbing hands after a visit to the toilet and again before handling food.

On those infrequent occasions when paralysis does occur, it rarely involves the breathing mechanism despite publicity given the "ron lung." Probably no more than one in a thousand of the afflicted requires the help of artificial means for respiration.

OF THE PARALYZED, the preponderant majority make a sufficiently complete recovery so that they suffer little functional disability during the remainder of their lives. Rehabilitation therapy goes a long way toward reducing these handicaps to an absolute minimum. But the great miracles are accomplished by the healing processes of nature.

Here are some of the lessons to be learned from these truths:

Irrespective of age, take your Salk shots this spring so that you are fully protected by the summer months when polio rates reach their peak.

at the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.

Twin vases of white gladioli and chrysanthemums graced the altar which was banked with schiffelia. Two seven-branch candelabra lighted the chancel.

Homer Taylor was organist for the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace and taffeta. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with a scoop neckline and bracelet-length sleeves. The bouffant skirt of taffeta was outlined with lace. A queen's crown of seed pearls held her short circular veil. Pink carnations formed her arm bouquet.

The maid of honor was Miss Elaine Underwood of Salem, cousin of the bride. She was attired in a gown of white lace over mint green taffeta, with a matching green headpiece. She carried an arm bouquet of mint green carnations.

John Hlaudy of Warren was best man and John Zagger of Warren was the usher.

For her niece's wedding, Mrs. Elizabeth Underwood of Salem wore a navy ensemble, while the bridegroom's mother wore a blue and turquoise floral print dress. Both wore white carnation corsages.

One hundred guests greeted the newlyweds at the reception in the music room of the church.

Pink and green florets encircled the base of the three-tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a pink bell and heart. Miss Donna Stoffer of Salem registered the guests from Warren, Salem and vicinity.

A graduate of Salem High School, Mrs. Wilson is employed as a secretary by the Salem China Co. Her husband is a Warren G. Harding High School graduate, and is employed as a plumber by Antenucci, Inc. in Warren.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will reside at Elmhurst Mobile Estates, Elm Road, Warren. For traveling, the bride wore a beige sheath with matching accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Members of the bridal party were recently feted at a dinner party at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Episcopal Church Women Organize New Division

The Right Rev. Nelson M. Burroughs, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio, spoke to baptised women of the Church of Our Saviour at a special meeting Thursday evening at the church.

The women formed a new organization which shall be called The Women's Division of the Church of Our Saviour. The rector, Rev. T. G. S. Whitney, appointed the following officers: President, Mrs. Victor Zerbs; vice president, Miss Edith Forbes; secretary, Mrs. Charles Irish; and treasurer, Mrs. H. Kenneth Williams.

The newly-appointed officers of the executive committee of the women's work in the church. Speaking to the congregation, the Right Rev. Nelson M. Burroughs, bishop of the Diocese of Ohio, said: "...In every area where a big job today has to be done, people are undertaking this job with intelligence, with a seriousness of concern and purpose that I have not noticed before in our generation. The world is on the move. The Christian religion, we think, is the answer to practically every problem the world has. ... Every local effort ought to be undertaken with a world-wide intention."

"Anything done on the local level should be in tune with the whole purpose of God. If it isn't in tune, it just dies, and you get on every side a lot of little groups all unrelated to each other, struggling alone, wondering why they don't really succeed. Times have changed. There's so much more to do today than there used to be. The work of this parish cannot be done by a little group or even a series of groups. It can only be adequately done by the enlistment of every individual in the congregation. It cannot be done any longer by this old-time routine. The church must be made stronger than ever and in order to give an adequate, complete, well-rounded witness this, we think, is the way it can be done."

In closing the meeting, the Rev. Mr. Whitney said that the new organization will include all women of the church who become members not by invitation but by reason of their baptism.

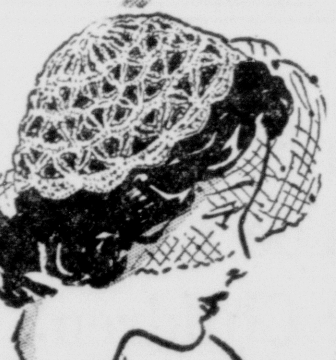

The Women's Division will be made up of three guilds to be called the Morning, Afternoon, and Evening Guilds of the church. All meetings will be held in the church proper beginning in the month of April.

All officers of the Women's Division and the Guilds will be communicants of the church.

The Guilds known as the Harriet Watt and St. Agnes Guilds will remain essentially the same as to membership and officers for 1961 and we urge all members of the church, both men and women, to participate in this undertaking.

most respected jurists, and his wife, Marjorie, a leader of West Palm Beach civic and social circles, disappeared the night of June 15, 1955.

A relentless investigation spanning more than five years was climaxed with the arrest of Peel, once a promising attorney, on a charge that he hired two assassins to kidnap Chillingworth from his home and drown him in the Atlantic Ocean.

Boyd A. (Lucky) Holzapfel, a notorious hoodlum, and George (Bobby) Lincoln, a Negro moonshiner, confessed they did the job and claimed that it was on Peel's orders. They killed Mrs. Chillingworth, too, they said, because "we didn't want any witnesses."

They said Peel, 37, a city judge in West Palm Beach at the time, was operating a liquor and gambling protection racket and believed that Chillingworth planned to expose him.

nesses of Miss Taylor. The delays are estimated to have cost more than $1 million so far.

Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, said in New York he was waiting for the outcome of Miss Taylor's latest illness before deciding what to do about the film. Earlier he had said he didn't care how long he had to delay, he would not replace Miss Taylor in the starring role.

The 29-year-old beauty was rushed to the exclusive London clinic by ambulance Saturday night with staphylococcus pneumonia. An emergency tracheotomy was performed, placing a thin tube into her windpipe to ease her breathing.

Miss Taylor was given one hour to live at one point, said her husband, Eddie Fisher, 31.

"I think she has turned the corner now and is fighting back," said the singer, weary from his long vigil at her bedside. Dr. Goldman reported that she was conscious but could not talk because of the tube in her throat.

Her parents came to see her late Sunday. Another visitor was Joseph Mankiewicz, the director who replaced Reuben Mamoulian for the making of "Cleopatra."

MOVIES' VOLCANO BLOWS! — An erupting "volcano" blows its top near Fallbrook, Calif., as a Hollywood film studio staged the blast on top of a scale-model Pacific island. In the movie scene for the film "The Devil at 4 O'Clock" the "eruption" seems to make an entire island disappear. Technicians spent four months building the volcano mound — of cork — atop a 50 foot natural hill. The 15-foot cone was destroyed in seconds as cameras recorded the scene.

Congo

Sudanese guards surrendered Saturday evening.

Elsewhere in the town, fighting went on until noon Sunday.

A five-man Danish movement control unit still is operating in the port and the Congolese have pledged not to interfere with U.N. stores stacked in Matadi's dock-side warehouses.

(Canadian army officials in Ottawa said they had learned that eight of the nine Canadians at the radio station had reached Leopoldville "relatively unharmed." The fate of the ninth Canadian was not known.

Plans Urgent Action

(At U.N. headquarters in New York Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjöld told his 18-nation Congo Advisory Committee he planned urgent action, but officials who reported this did not elaborate.)

On the political front the round table conference of Congo political leaders opened in the Malagasy Republic, formerly the island of Madagascar, amid reports that Aniane Gzenga, the head of the Communist-supported government in Oriental Province, was on his way to join the conference.

Clephas Kamitatu, former president of the Leopoldville provincial government, represented Gzenga at the opening of the conference, which will try to work out a truce between the Congo's warring political factions.

Others present were Kasavubu, his premier, Joseph Ileo; President Moise Tshombe of Katanga; Albert Kalonji, leader of the "Mining State" he has proclaimed in South Kasai Province; Jean Bolikongo of Equator Province; and Barthelemy Mukenge of North Kasai.

A spokesman for Tshombe said Gzenga had arrived at Kamina air base, in Katanga, en route to Malagasy. The big base is neutral territory under U.N. protection.

Gzenga's participation is essential for the success of any peace agreement. His troops control at least a third of the Congo and he and his associates are the political heirs of the slain ex-premier, Patrice Lumumba.

Income Tax Report Due For Council

Salem City Council may get the first look into the city income tax receipts when City Auditor Helen Coyne makes her first report to the group Tuesday night.

The first tax report, although still somewhat inconclusive at this early stage, should give councilmen an idea of just what effect the current unemployment situation will have on the overall yield of the tax of one-half of one percent.

Earlier yield estimates of the city tax, which is being given a trial run by the city in 1961, was set at $150,000.

A report also is expected from Councilman Fred Koenreich on the progress of his finance committee on drafting the 1961 city appropriation ordinance. The committee has met twice in the past week and the ordinance could be completed at a third meeting if no further problems arise.

Mayor Cranmer is expected to ask City Council for funds to purchase new trucks for city street crews. The mayor is also expected to report on reactivation of the old highway commission that laid much of the groundwork for highway improvement in the area several years ago.

Police said Miss May received contusions and abrasions of the hip and left ankle when she was hit by a car driven by Ray E. Whinnery 28, of Lisbon. Whinnery, headed west and turning south at the intersection told police he did not see Miss May as she was crossing the street because bad weather obscured his vision.

We'll Bury You!

says NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV

This is the language of fear. 79 million people on the brink of Communism hear it every day. These are the people in the Iron Curtain countries bordering Soviet Russia.

"We'll bury you," Khrushchev says to the Free World... and Europe listens... and wonders. Who will answer this communist lie? Who will take up the challenge? You can by supporting RADIO FREE EUROPE.

RADIO FREE EUROPE is a privately sponsored organization that depends upon individual Americans like yourself for its very existence. RFE broadcasts the truth to the millions behind the Iron Curtain awaiting the Free World's answer.

Will you support the truths you live by? Will you give a dollar, five dollars, more? Look in your heart for the answer.

Salem Draws Poland In Youngstown District Tourney

Fray Scheduled For 8 p. m. Friday

Warren Harding, Campbell Memorial Meet Thursday; 1 Survivor Advances

The Salem Quakers will return to tournament action at 8 p. m. Friday night at Youngstown South Field House against the Poland Bulldogs who fought their way into District play by smashing Canfield, 50-38, Saturday night at Youngstown.

Warren Harding, which knocked Salem out of the tournament last season, also became one of the four teams to reach the District tourney this year by pinning a 57-43 setback on Youngstown Rayen Saturday.

The previous night, Salem and Cammoell Memorial had advanced to the District by winning bracket finals in the Struthers Section.

In drawings for the District tourney, Warren Harding and Campbell Memorial drew the opening night assignment at 8 p. m. Thursday.

The winner of that clash will then meet the winner of Friday night's Salem-Poland fray.

The finals will be held at South Field House at 8 p. m. Saturday with the survivor advancing to Regional play the following week at Kent State University Field House.

THERE WILL BE FOUR teams in the Kent Regional. They will come from District tournaments at Eastlake, Bedford, Kent and Youngstown. One survivor in the Regional will advance to the State Tournament in Columbus.

Teams still in the running at Eastlake are Cleveland St. Joseph (20-0), Ashtabula Harbor (18-2), Cleveland East (13-7) and Ashtabula (17-3). At Kent are Akron South (13-6), Akron North (15-4), Akron Central (17-3), and Kent State High (13-7).

The regional favorite, Cleveland East Tech (17-2) is still in the running at Bedford, along with Cleveland St. Ignatius (16-4), Warrensville (21-0) and Parma (14-5). Poland, Salem's foe Friday night, will enter the tilt with

Carl Hoppel Captures State Wrestling Title

Carl Hoppel, a Beaver Local, junior, decided Don Lorence of Mantua Crestwood to capture the 133-pound championship in the state high school wrestling tournament completed Saturday at Columbus.

Beaver's other state qualifier, Gary Rambo, won one match and lost one to add one point to the 13 picked up by Hoppel and give Beaver Local 14 team points, enough to tie the Columbus County school with Whitehall for the number 13 spot in Ohio.

Santa Anita Winds Up Season Saturday

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Santa Anita winds up its winter meeting with the $100,000-added San Juan Capistrano Handicap Saturday.

For-And-Twenty, now the pride of the Alberta Ranches' stable of races, won the Santa Anita Derby Saturday in convincing fashion.

The Kentucky-bred colt is eligible for the Kentucky Derby, and trainer Vance Longden has definite plans for the Louisville Classic.

Lorence, who Hoppel beat in the finals Saturday was the same man he defeated in the District finals at Kent.

To cop the state title, Hoppel had to win four matches in Columbus. He outclassed his first foe, 12-0, then chalked up decisions of 5-1 and 6-0 before defeating Lorence 7-1 in the finals.

Ohio Legislature Swamped With More Than 1,000 Bills

By DUANE E. CROFT
Salem News Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — So much attention has been focused on the jobless pay battle in the Ohio General Assembly in the last couple of weeks that it may seem to some citizens the legislators have nothing else to do.

That, of course, is not the case. The total of bills introduced has passed the 1,000 mark and the lawmakers still have two legislative weeks to prepare their pet proposals before the House drops the lid on its hopper.

Historical precedent says only about a quarter of the bills introduced will be recorded eventually in the state's statute books. And only a relative handful of those that make the grade will arouse the earth-shaking interest.

THE LEGISLATIVE mill is a tortuous process, even for the so-called noncontroversial measures. Witness, for instance, the fate of the jobless pay bill despite the fact that practically every legislator is in favor of an emergency extension.

Consequently, a measure that stirs political animosities or threatens to step on the toes of some special interest in more apt to wind up in the oblivion of a disinterested committee's files than to come to rest in the law books.

Never is this more true than when an aggressive governor and the legislative majority are lined up on opposite sides of the political fence, as in 1961. That's when the governmental theory of checks and balances is likely to evolve into a simple checkmate.

DESPITE the prospect of a gloomy future, however, several battle-baiting proposals have been put on the bumpy Assembly belt. This is where some of them stand at the moment:

The bill to give local government

$14 million more a year for street and road use by shifting the costs of the Department of Highway Safety from license plate fees to gasoline tax revenue is scheduled for a floor vote in the House during the coming week.

It still faces hearings and a vote in the Senate and, after that, the possibility of a gubernatorial veto.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's proposed measure against criminal conspiracies has been sent to the House Judiciary Committee but hasn't been given a hearing yet.

THE GOVERNOR'S BILL to change the utility rate-making formula has not been sent to committee.

DiSalle's highly controversial demand for new laws against conflicts of interest among public officials is being battled around by a subcommittee. The three-man group promises a sincere effort to come up with something workable, but they all concede it won't be easy.

The four bills suggesting ways to redistrict the state to provide for Ohio's 24th congressman in 1963 are also in subcommittee. No one has been very optimistic that anything will come of them.

Three constitutional amendments calling for annual sessions of the Assembly have been offered, but none of them has had a hearing. The two in the House have not even been given to a committee.

SEVERAL BILLS on municipal annexation are in the hopper, and at least one has had one hearing. But the major annexation proposal is awaiting its turn on the schedule of the Metropolitan Areas Committee in the House.

A bill to authorize the creation of public community junior colleges will be introduced this week. It is the result of work by the Interim Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

but spokesmen for the six state universities and Gov. DiSalle himself lean toward expansion of the universities' branch college program.

An administration proposal to set up a juvenile services commission to fight delinquency has not yet been heard in committee.

The House bill to abolish the Department of Industrial and Economic Development has been given three hearings. The Government Operations Committee may take a vote on it Tuesday night. Chances are the department will be allowed to survive but will be told by the Finance Committee to get along on less money than it asked for.

A COUPLE of measures to expand the public school subsidy program have been offered, but the majority party's own bill has not yet been introduced.

DiSalle's proposal to abolish capital punishment entered the scene during the last week but his special message on the subject is still being prepared.

So is his message on campaign expenses, another priority item on the gubernatorial list. Boxes of data collected for it from all over the state were stacked in DiSalle's office last week.

A basic complicating factor in many of these measures is the fact they will cost more money. The Republican majority has pledged itself to keeping taxes right where they are, so money spent for new programs will have to be skimmed from old ones.

The unemployment compensation bill still has several hurdles to cross before its fate is decided. But when that is done, the legislators will still have plenty of work to do before they can go home for good.

DRIVE DIRECTOR NAMED

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three persons from Elyria have been named co-directors of the 1961 Ohio Easter Seal campaign, contributions to which support the work of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. The three are Miss Vivian Hackett, Meredith Barnes and Harry H. Howell. Elyria was where the society had its founding, starting first as a state organization, then progressing to national and international status.

Catharine the Great was the first person in Czarist Russia to be inoculated against small pox.

Salem City Hospital Candid Observations (Ninth Article of a Series on Hospital Information)

From The Mail Bag

For your information, these articles are published in five local newspapers: the Salem News, the Farm & Dairy, the East Palestine Leader, the Columbiana Ledger and the Lisbon Journal. They are also sent out to several state and national agencies and firms that are involved in the hospital field.

We have received several letters concerning these articles—here are some quotations:

"Very interesting, keep them coming" . . . Ohio State Medical Association.

We enjoy your articles — may we have permission to reprint some of them in our monthly magazine? . . . Ohio State Nurses Association.

"These articles will be useful to us in advising people who wish to build new hospitals and who do not realize that operating cost is the important factor, not the building cost" . . . Ohio Department of Health, Division of Hospital Facilities.

"Very interesting style and highly informative — keep up the good work" . . . Ohio Hospital Association.

"This is a valuable program in public relations—what reaction have you had from the public?" American Hospital Association, Division of Professional Service.

"Excellent public relations" . . . American College of Hospital Administrators.

"It is increasingly apparent that we tell the hospital story to the general public so they will know, understand, and support their own community's institutions" . . . American Hospital Supply Corporation, Evanston, Illinois.

"Your idea of publishing this series instead of a printed annual report is very novel and most welcome" . . . Will Ross Incorporated, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

"We have passed these articles along to our executive staff and department heads — who have read them with great interest. May we publish some of this material in our monthly publication to the medical and hospital people" . . . A. S. Alo's Company, St. Louis, Missouri.

"Your observations are written so that the average individual, without any knowledge of hospital needs, requirements and problems can understand and perhaps become more sympathetic" . . . IPCO Hospital Supply Corporation, New York City.

"We compliment you on your unusual appreciation of public relations" . . . Mainecke & Company, Inc., New York City.

"A refreshing departure — send more" . . . Continental Hospital Services Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.

To our readers — your "Candid Opinion" of our "Candid Observations" would be most welcomed during this series of about 20 articles.

Since this is an experiment in hospital public relations, your opinions would be valuable to numerous agencies in the hospital field.
